TWO EXTENSIONS OF THE SCULPTURAL DEKO OBJECTS COLLECTION

Normann Copenhagen expands its Deko Objects collection with two new designs by Studio Yolk. Featuring soft forms and a fresh color palette, these additions blend artistry and functionality, inspiring creativity and personal expression. The new pieces include a hexagonal object in Petrol Blue and a circular bubble cluster in Soft Pink, thoughtfully designed to harmonize in both form and color.

Viewing the hexagonal form as a natural evolution of the original square Deko Object, and the bubble shape as floral buds on the verge of blooming, Studio Yolk explains: “We are deeply inspired by nature’s systematized elegance. The colors and shapes resonate with the existing collection while offering a fresh perspective. Petrol Blue brings depth and serenity, while the Soft Pink hue, rooted in the floral universe, is playful yet adaptable – like a bridge between nature and imagination.”

As with the previous iterations, the versatility of Deko Objects allows for endless creative possibilities. Users can rearrange the objects to evoke new expressions, from artistic sculptures to practical containers or decorative vases. This freedom lets users create configurations that reflect mood, style, and atmosphere, blending the realms of functionality, design, and art.

“The simplicity of the design is deceptive,” say Morten Linde and Pernille Iben, the duo behind Studio Yolk. “The objects’ versatility lies in their ability to surprise. Rearranging their stacking order or angles unlocks new expressions, ensuring their relevance and intrigue for years to come.”

The Deko Objects collection now comes in three distinct shapes, various sizes, and an expanded color range, including the new Petrol Blue and Soft Pink, alongside the existing Sage, Lemon, Hazel, and Snow. These additions provide users with even more ways to stack and arrange the objects for limitless creative expression.
